No Insurance is Good Insurance Until Something Happens!

The trouble is, that something MAY happen. Your building MAY never burn, your stock of goods MAY escape conflagration, you MAY be able to get your household effects out of a burning house, and again you MAY NOT. Exercise ordinary prudence and take out a policy to protect you in case of loss by fire, the cost is small in proportion to the benefit you receive in case SOMETHING HAPPENS.

DELEGATE TO KANSAS CITY.

The many friends of Miss Elisabeth Garland, recently of this city, will be pleased to hear of the honor given her when she was chosen last week to represent the town girls of the Y. W. C. A. of Converse college at the Student Volunteer convention which will be held in Kansas City from December 23 to January 4. This convention meets once every four years, and one thousand delegates from all parts of the United States will have representatives.

The greatest figures in the missionary world will appear on the programs. All expenses of the trip are defrayed by the Y. W. C. A.

A year's subscription to the Hustler-Democrat would make a most appropriate Christmas gift.

INSTRUCTIONS TO DEPUTIES

Hard Road Ahead For Collector Bailey's Revenue Deputies.

Collector J. W. Bailey of the eastern district has issued instructions to his deputy collectors that set the standard uncommonly high.

The Collector's ability as lawyer and editor puts him in a position that requires the making of a special standard.

In writing his deputies, Mr. Bailey doesn't purvey epigrams or indulge in suppositions. At the head of the list of evils to be stricken, is the illicit distillery and the test of the deputy's ability will be the early demoralization of that ancient institution, built by tubal-cain, he artifier in copper and brass. A sample of the Collector's requirements will be found in the appended order:

I am today handing to you your commission as Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue for the Fourth North Carolina District. In doing so I wish to bring to your mind so far as I can a fresh realization of your duties.

First of all, let me remind you that as a sworn officer of the United States it devolves upon to represent our government not only in the enforcement of its revenue laws but in your personal bearing under all conditions. I shall expect each of my deputies to bear himself in a manner becoming one who represents the United States—soberly, with dignity and in earnest endeavor to do his duty.

Just must bear in mind, on the one hand, that you are a servant of the people, not master, and on the other, that this is a government of laws and not of men, and that you represent and must stand for the enforcement of the revenue laws of the United States. In the presence of the innocent you are servant, before the offender you are the arm of the law.

For a friend or relative at a distance nothing would be more appropriate as a Christmas gift than a subscription to the Hustler-Democrat.

Christmas Suggestions

IT'S RATHER HARD to buy Xmas gifts, isn't it? Not that you dislike the idea of giving, but you are at a loss to know what will please Father.

You will not have this trouble if you will consult us, for we are specialists in the selection of the right gift for the right person.

Here is just a few of the many suggestions we can make to you:

FOR MOTHER—A beautiful piece of silver plated ware. A gift that would be in excellent taste and would be greatly appreciated by her.

FOR FATHER—A South Bend Watch, a real man's gift. A South Bend Watch will give him a lifetime of accurate service. It's the most durable and accurate watch we know of. You can get it in the very thin design if you wish. He will certainly be proud of a gift like this.

FOR SISTER—A locket of the latest and most exquisite design. She would certainly be pleased with a gift like this, with a nice chain to wear it on.

FOR BROTHER—A high-grade fountain pen—one that never clogs up, scratches or refuses to write. He will find it a mighty handy convenience and, therefore, a very acceptable gift.

FOR BABY—A spoon—it's about the nicest gift you can give a baby.

These are only a few of the things which we are able to suggest. Come in and look over our very complete stock and you will get a great number of suggestions.

TEACHERS' PROBLEMS.

Address of President Reynolds Before State Teachers' Assembly.

President A. C. Reynolds of the Cullowhee Industrial school delivered the following address before the state teachers and superintendents in Raleigh last week:

In beginning his address, President Reynolds said that a professional man in any line of work was that person who centered his energies in one direction and kept them there for all time and followed that business through life. In order to enter a profession, one must have an opportunity to prepare himself for the work and have inducements to enter into it.

"What opportunity is afforded by the State to prepare teachers for their work?" the speaker asked, and then answered his own question by saying that he believed that the preparation of the teacher was in the home. The parents must furnish the very best food that can be had, and must also see to it that the children have good moral and spiritual surroundings. They should be taught the lesson of obedience and devotion to help control younger children. During the school days knowledge should be accumulated, and foundation for a noble manhood should be laid.

All teachers should be well supplied with knowledge, but this is not the case. Many are trying to teach who have not this supply of knowledge, and it should be the duty of those who believe in teaching as a profession to stop and to eliminate those who are incompetent. A teacher should have the power to impart as well as to take in.

A strong personality should be developed, and the power to control others should be cultivated—a control not to be assumed physically, but by the will. The teacher should have a personality that will be respected everywhere, and should study the laws of the development of the child. There are some teachers who were ever really taught well themselves, and who cannot in turn teach others any better. Teaching should be lifted from an avocation to a vocation.

This condition of affairs, according to the opinion of President Reynolds, was brought about because the teachers are inefficient. In the professions of law and medicine, protection is provided by the State, and restriction are already placed upon the high school courses. This ought to form a nucleus around which can be built up a better system of teaching in the State.

All of the best of the present corps of teachers now in the work ought to be encouraged to continue, and those who may not now be ranked as professionals should be given a chance to make such of themselves, and then if they refuse they should be eliminated altogether. Protection should be furnished those who want to go into the work, and provisions should be made which would not allow such persons to be looked upon as the recipients of pensions.

The speaker urged upon the teachers to keep abreast of the times, and to acquire all the knowledge possible in every field. He wanted them to do such efficient work that the people of the State would have to realize that the training of children is the most important thing to be looked after, and that they would finally come to realize this to the extent that they would provide the facilities for keeping their ranks of the profession well filled.

President Reynolds wanted his hearers to go forth into every county of the State and burn into the minds and hearts of the people the fact that the child in the poor county and the child in the wealthy county alike should be given an opportunity of a good education. The movement to erect a standard for persons entering the teaching profession should receive the support of every one in any way interested in the movement, and thus aid in the building up of a strong educational system. "Then and not until then," said the speaker in closing, "will the people furnish money for the carrying on of this work."

TALENT IN MOUNTAINS.

For nine years Horace Kephart, a native Pennsylvanian has successfully concealed himself in Bryson City. No one knew there was such a man until the State Literary and Historical association, on last Thursday, singled him out as the man of foremost literary achievement in North Carolina during the past year. His literary merit,

"Our Southern Highlanders," won for him the Patterson loving cup.—Charity and Children.

MONUMENT TO CRAWFORD.

The Waynesville Courier comes forward with the announcement that the numerous friends of the late Wm. T. Crawford have initiated a movement for raising funds for the erection of a monument to his memory on the court house lawn at his home town of Waynesville.

This is as it should be and will meet with enthusiastic response from the people of the mountain district as well as from friends and admirers throughout the state and nation at large. While there is no need of a shaft of granite or marble to keep his memory green, still it would be most fitting to erect one to remind us that it pays to be a friend to man, that "Kind hearts are more than coronets and simple faith than Norman blood."—Jackson County Journal.

Old newspapers can be applied to numerous purposes. They cost only a trifle, five cents a package, at the Democrat-Hustler office.
